LIVING IN ST. LOUIS A CENTURY AGO

A hundred years ago, people in St. Louis were concerned about many of the same things we are: war and peace, politics, and new ways that challenged and threatened old traditions and ideas of propriety. The 1910s was the decade of the First World War. It was also a decade that took us from the corseted lady with a parasol to the flapper with a cigarette. Jim Kirchherr, Senior Producer at the Nine Network (KETC), will discuss Decades: 1910-1920: What is the World Coming To? This is part of our quarterly series.

DATE:
THURSDAY, July 17, 2014

TIME:
6:30-8:00 p.m.

Sponsored by:
Maplewood Public Library
7550 Lohmeyer
Maplewood, Mo. 63143
314-781-2174